This interview was done October 3rd between Detective Prudence Bickerstaff (Pru for short) of CSI and Terry Madison. Terry works part-time at Matilda J. Gibson Memorial Library. This interview was performed with consent at 10:15am and recorded.

For the purpose of this interview initials will be Detective Bickerstaff (DB) and Terry Madison (TM).

DB: Good morning, Terry. Thank you for coming in.

TM: You're welcome.

DB: I know this is hard news.

TM: Very sad news. I hate it when something like this happens to someone so young.

DB: Yes, it is a pity. Maybe you can help us figure out what happened.

TM: Goodness, I hope so, but I don't know how I can since I was home sick.

DB: Are you feeling better now?

TM: Yes, just a 24 hour stomach bug. I'm tender but making it.

DB: So, because you were sick, Mr. Bishop ended up doing a lot of your work Upstairs. Correct?

TM: Well, I don't know if it is singularly my work, but I am upstairs a lot.

DB: Could you say that perhaps someone wanted you dead?

TM: (sharp inhale) Oh.... I would hope not.

DB: We all hope not, but alas....here we are.

TM: I don't think anyone wants me dead.

DB: What about Aric, did YOU want him dead?

TM: OH! That's horrible. I would never want anyone dead.

DB: Well, your lack of being in the library placed him just in the place where he died. Could it be that you planned that?

TM: I plan dinners with my family, and events for my church... not murders!

DB: No need to get upset, I'm just trying to put pieces together.

TM: I understand, but I did not want Mr. Bishop dead. I feel terribly about all of this.

DB: Do you know anyone who would want him dead?

TM: I don't think so. He's a nice young man.

DB: What is the significance of the white rose?

TM: I don't know. Do we have a white rose arrangement?

DB: No, you do not.

TM: Then I guess I don't know what you are asking.

DB: Aric was found with a quilt on top of him, do you know what the significance Of this would be?

TM: Ann quilts... maybe they got into an argument.

DB: Do they argue much?

TM: I don't know. I'm just guessing.

DB: Alright, well. If you can think of anyone that could possibly have had a problem with Mr. Bishop, could you let me know?

TM: Sure thing.

DB: Thank you.
